Bio

Alex is a change agent around all things Innovation He loves to learn almost as much as he loves to tell stories. He will tell you that failure produces the best learning opportunities. Even though it took him years to discover this, he is on a mission to help the next generations of leaders learn from his mistakes. The secret: Hone in on your meta skills.

As a former collegiate record holder, congressionally recognized community builder and a high academic scholar, he can tell you a thing or two about leadership.
